QCF 2018 Philanthropist of the Year Awards

Celebrating Philanthropy in Queensland

Our vision is to inspire philanthropy within our community and help build capacity for those working toward social equity by investing donations, making distributions and grants, and supporting charities to remain resilient and sustainable.

About

Queensland Community Foundation (QCF)

QCF is a Charitable Trust, established in 1997 by the Honourable Mike Ahern AO.

The fund has grown substantially, and now returns in excess of $2 million a year to charities around the state. There is a General Fund and several named sub-funds. The sub-funds can be set up to honour an individual or family, who can then nominate recipients of income each year. Or they can be set up by charities to provide them with a sustainable income stream.

QCF is sponsored by the Public Trustee and QIC.

Every dollar donated goes to the Fund, with administration costs met by sponsors.

Donations to QCF are enduring. They continue giving back, year after year.

QCF PATRON IS THE HONOURABLE MIKE AHERN AO

From QCF Chair

Philanthropy Week provides the perfect opportunity for QCF to showcase philanthropy in Queensland in all its rich and diverse forms as we honour individuals and organisations who have made outstanding contributions in this sphere.

I am delighted to introduce the QCF Philanthropist of the Year Awards for 2018. This year's nominees include many of our great State's business and community leaders, innovative entrepreneurs, and tireless advocates representing and supporting hundreds of charitable causes. This special and joyous Queensland event includes presentations in the categories of Corporate, Small-Medium Enterprise (SME), Community, Emerging, and Higher Education. I warmly congratulate each of our outstanding nominees.

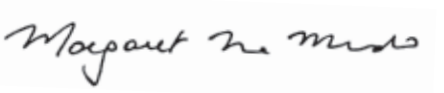
I also thank the judges who courageously took on this difficult decision-making task.

Each of this year's nominees and winners is inspirational. They show us how to create positive social change for the benefit of current and future generations. They demonstrate how creative generosity can help ensure our diverse and decentralised State remains a cohesive and compassionate society in fast changing times.

On behalf of QCF, I thank all involved in these Awards: our sponsors, the Public Trustee and QIC; our event partners; our judges for their diligence and wisdom; our hard-working, dedicated staff; and those who made time in their busy lives to submit such excellent nominations.

Please join me in doing it all again in 2019 for the QCF Philanthropy Awards have critical on-going importance. They are not merely a celebration of extraordinary achievement and generosity. They also provide narratives, insights, lessons, examples and challenges from which QCF can mould its vital role as a custodian of social wealth for current and future generations of Queenslanders.

Congratulations to all nominees and winners in the 2018 QCF Philanthropist of the Year Awards.



The Honourable Margaret McMurdo AC
Chair, Board of Governors
Queensland Community Foundation

About the Awards

Queensland Community Foundation promotes the QCF Philanthropist of the Year Awards to recognise the best of philanthropy in Queensland.

Categories for nominations include Community, Emerging, Corporate SME and Higher Education Philanthropist of the Year.

The criteria for each award focuses on philanthropy that is outstanding in its generosity, is effective and impactful and exemplifies qualities such as commitment, inspiration, and leadership.

Creative approaches are encouraged.

THE NOMINEES WILL:

- live or operate in Queensland,
- have a track record of charitable giving to non-profit organisations servicing Queensland,
- make a positive impact on the lives of Queenslanders through their giving, and
- encourage or motivate others to become philanthropic.

QCF 2018 Community Philanthropist of the year

This Award is sponsored by the Public Trustee.

The Public Trustee has been proudly serving Queenslanders for over 100 years. With 16 regional offices across the State, the Public Trustee provides financial administration services, funds management, and is the largest maker of wills in the southern hemisphere. The Public Trustee is Trustee of QCF and its sub-funds.

This award recognises an outstanding individual, family or family foundation with a proven record of exceptional financial generosity and leadership to one or more Queensland-based non-profit organisations. The successful nominee will demonstrate leadership through their actions, have an established record of outstanding philanthropic support to a diversity of organisations, have demonstrated extraordinary civic and charitable responsibility and also inspire others.

Tim Fairfax AC

The establishment of the Tim Fairfax Family Foundation (TFFF) has impacted communities across Queensland and the Northern Territory, distributing over $31 million in the areas of arts, community and education.

TFFF builds the capacity of rural, regional and remote communities to improve their vibrancy, connectedness, resilience, and sustainability.

Initiatives have included The Puuya Foundation in the Lockhart River Aboriginal community, drought affected communities via the Foundation for Rural and Regional Renewal, and creative skills development by Human Ventures for young people in Cherbourg, Woorabinda and Hope Vale. There's also been funding for the Central Highlands Science Centre.

Arts organisations supported, particularly with a regional focus, include Bangarra Dance Theatre, Camerata, Circa, Crossroads Arts, Dancenorth, Flying Arts Alliance, Jute Theatre Company, Opera Queensland, Queensland Ballet, Queensland Music Festival and the Queensland Theatre Company.

Tim Fairfax has also been a supporter and served on the governing bodies of the RNA, the National Gallery of Australia, the Foundation for Rural and Regional Renewal, the National Portrait Gallery, the Salvation Army and the University of Sunshine Coast Foundation.

He is Chancellor of QUT, and established the Tim Fairfax Learning Potential Fund Scholarships, providing more than 185 scholarships for students from rural, remote and regional areas.

He has been involved with the Board and Foundation of Queensland Art Gallery Gallery of Modern Art (QAGoMA) since 1996, becoming president of the Foundation in 2008. Since then, the Foundation has raised more than $56 million, acquired over 3,500 works, and supported the Kids on Tour programs to regional communities.

Tim Fairfax's commitment to philanthropy is exemplary. His enthusiasm, leadership, knowledge and hands on approach has had a significant impact on beneficiaries.

Tim Fairfax has nominated The Foundation for Rural and Regional Renewal for the $2,000 donation sponsored by The Public Trustee.

QCF 2018 Corporate Philanthropist of the Year

This award recognises a corporation or business with more than 200 employees that has created a culture of philanthropy within their organisation and has demonstrated an outstanding commitment to philanthropy through its financial support of one or more non-profit organisations. It will also demonstrate leadership, encourage volunteer participation, have an established record of philanthropic support, be a business with a holistic approach to philanthropy, and have produced a measurable charitable impact.

QCoal Group

QCOAL GROUP

QCoal Group has demonstrated broad support for a range of charities across Queensland for the past 12 years. The biggest recent focus has been the QCoal Community Dental Service, now the Royal Flying Doctor Dental Service.

QCoal is a Principal Partner of the Royal Flying Doctor Service (RFDS) and Founding Donor of the QCoal Foundation.

The Dental Service was developed to prove the effectiveness of mobile health delivery for rural and remote communities and its innovative design featured two dental surgeries and a mobile orthopantomogram (OPG) in a purpose built trailer.

Over four years, $4 million of treatment was provided for 8,000 patients over 54,000 kilometres travelled. The service provided a comprehensive needs-based model for mobile dental services in rural Queensland.

As well as providing frontline clinical care, the program also collected data which proved the need for services of this kind. In June 2017 the Commonwealth Government took over the funding and has committed to continue until 2022.

In addition, the QCoal Foundation, established in 2011, provides up to $1 million a year to initiatives to foster resilience in regional and remote communities, in key areas of health, education, financial literacy, regional work experience and scholarships.

Beneficiaries have included the Wellbeing and Health Expo, for students in Collinsville, a yearly scholarship for a rural student to study at JCU, the REX program, which provides placement opportunities in Collinsville and Dysart for university students and Collinsville Connect, providing ICT services and a kids coding program.

There has also been support for Hear and Say North Queensland's Telepractice, and the Financial Basics Partnership.

The QCoal Foundation has adopted a social venture approach, based on recognising community need, identifying innovative solutions, and then measuring their effectiveness

QCoal Group fosters a culture of giving within the workplace, engaging employees, suppliers and the broader community in its approach. Donations to the QCoal Foundation from staff and external parties are regularly matched by the QCoal Group.

Chris Wallin, QCoal Managing Director, is a quiet but substantial achiever. He has overseen massive growth in the philanthropic reach of the QCoal Group and the QCoal Foundation.

QCF 2018 Higher Education Philanthropist of the Year

This Award is sponsored by QUT.

QUT is a university with a global outlook and a real-world focus and is at the forefront of innovation and progress. As one of the nation's fastest growing research universities, QUT equips students and graduates with the skills they need. Known for taking its social responsibility seriously, QUT also invests heavily in collaborative learning and interdisciplinary research environments.

The QCF Higher Education Philanthropist of the Year Award recognises an outstanding individual, family or family foundation with a proven record of exceptional financial generosity and volunteer leadership to one or more Queensland-based tertiary education institutions. The successful nominee will have demonstrated outstanding civic and charitable responsibility, inspired others to philanthropic action, and made a significant impact in the Queensland community through leadership in education philanthropy, time, advocacy, financial donations and fundraising.

Dr Soheil Abedian

Dr Abedian believes education creates opportunity. His philanthropic endeavours cover higher education, medical research and community services. His support for tertiary education on the Gold Coast has totaled $6.4 million since 2002.

Soheil Abedian's contribution covers infrastructure, scholarships, and student support, including $5 million for the Abedian School of Architecture at Bond University. In addition Abedian Foundation scholarships have supported students at Bond since 2009 and continue to do so.

At Griffith University, Dr Abedian and his wife Anne created the Abedian Foundation Griffith Futures Scholarships Program, which supports 60 individual student scholarships a year, including for Indigenous students. The commitment is for six years, from 2017 at a cost of $900,000.

In addition, moved by the personal circumstances of two scholarship winners, he agreed to cover medical costs for one, and housing costs for another. Dr Abedian is known to take a personal interest in how students are progressing as well as providing mentoring support.

The Sunland Foundation has also supported the Leukaemia Foundation since 2002, contributing significantly to the flagship Clem Jones-Sunland Leukaemia Foundation Village, which was opened in 2007. This provides much needed accommodation for leukaemia sufferers and their families during treatment.

Both the Sunland and Abedian Foundations, and Soheil and Anne's personal support, have been felt in many other areas. These include the Gold Coast Community Fund, Oz Harvest, Salvation Army, the Peter Lacey Sports Foundation, Variety Queensland, Wesley Mission, Cure Cancer Australia, Muscular Dystrophy, Youth Enterprise Trust, Arcadia, Yhes House and Lifesaving Australia.

An architect by training, Soheil Abedian understands the importance of solid foundations in life. He says that by investing in our children, we are investing in the future. And that through education, we can unite the world.

QCF 2018 Emerging Philanthropist of the Year

This Award is sponsored by QIC.

QIC

QIC is a global diversified alternative investment firm offering infrastructure, real estate, private capital, liquid strategies and multi-asset investments. It is one of the largest institutional investment managers in Australia, with $85 billion in funds under management.

The QCF Emerging Philanthropist of the Year Award honours an innovative, emerging philanthropist, team of students or giving circle, whose significant early achievements embody the qualities that define philanthropic excellence, including outstanding generosity and creativity. This Award is not about the biggest cheque, or the largest public profile. The Award will recognise an individual, or a group of young people aged 17 – 35 years. The successful nominee will have demonstrated creativity in philanthropic efforts through leadership, voluntary commitment of time, advocacy, financial donations and fundraising. They will be an inspirational role model, whose charitable impact is measurable.

Courtney Talbot

Courtney Talbot is a remarkable young woman whose passion for philanthropy covers the arts, community services and sport. Not only is she generous with her time and money, she is also creative, energetic and inspirational. Courtney began her career as a nurse, specialising in oncology and palliative care. Through nursing, she developed a deep love of working closely with people who need more specialised assistance.

Courtney Talbot joined the Queensland Library Foundation in 2014 to carry on the legacy of her late father Ken Talbot. She introduced an innovative crowd funding event which resulted in new donors gifting more than $20,000 in the past 18 months. She also established the Next Generation sub-committee to engage young people in giving. For the past two years, she's been using the wealth of knowledge and experience surrounding her to develop the committee's members, directions and goals. She successfully launched the Foundation's FLAME Network in 2015, which provides opportunities for young professionals to become involved in philanthropy, and recently joined the Brisbane Festival's Giving Committee.

A significant SLQ (State Library of Queensland) financial supporter, Courtney Talbot is also on fundraising committees for MS Queensland and the Brisbane Festival, and she regularly donates to local charities.

In 2016, she helped MS Queensland's Project Dignity 120, which raised more than $1 million over two years to build 120 care and support facilities for young MS sufferers.

She has raised funds to commission new work from artists with the Brisbane Festival, used her position to address 800 dinner guests on behalf of the State Library of Queensland, and volunteered weekly at Mission Australia's Café One in Fortitude Valley, serving lunch and working in the kitchen. This role contributed to shaping her knowledge of social impact and the need for sustainable giving plans to produce long-term solutions.

As a leader, Courtney champions philanthropy to deliver long-term benefits. She is a worthy recipient of this award.

Courtney Talbot nominated MS Queensland as her charity of choice to receive a $2,000 donation sponsored by QIC.

QCF 2018 SME Philanthropist of the Year

The QCF SME Philanthropist of the Year Award recognises a small business with less than 200 employees whose grassroots level of charitable support has impacted the local community. The successful nominee will have an established record of philanthropic support in regional Queensland, a business with a holistic approach to philanthropy. Their actions will have had a measurable charitable impact.

Thynne + Macartney

Thynne + Macartney has been contributing to the community since the firm's establishment in 1893. Although they are involved with a broad range of community activity, their main contribution is in the area of veteran's support, through the Gallipoli Medical Research Foundation (GMRF). There is a historical link; one of the founders, Andrew Thynne, was involved in the recruiting of soldiers during World War I and also the early organisation of Anzac Day commemorations.

As Discovery Partner of the GMRF Thynne + Macartney is continuing the firm's historical support of veterans. In 2016, Thynne + Macartney committed to donating $100,000 over four years. This contribution is currently funding innovative medical research into the development of treatments for serious illnesses such as liver cancer, which is currently the fastest increasing cause of cancer mortality in Australia.

Thynne + Macartney also sponsors a GMRF Innovation Grant which funds research projects to enhance clinical outcomes at Greenslopes Private Hospital.

In addition to their financial contribution, Thynne + Macartney offers non-restricted pro bono support and advice to GMRF on legal matters.

Thynne + Macartney embeds their philanthropic work within the organisation, and encourages staff to become involved in all philanthropic activities. A number of the team advise GMRF when required, participate in community-based events such as GMRF's Red Run, and attend functions where they speak with others in the GMRF community, such as the GMRF Research Awards Night.

The firm was a founding sponsor of the Bridge to Brisbane fun run, supporting the event for over 10 years and contributing significantly to the development of what is now one of Queensland's largest and most recognisable community fun runs. This has raised thousands of dollars for charities in Brisbane.

Thynne + Macartney also supports Ride West, a boutique charity bike ride from Brisbane to Longreach to support regional communities. This event helps raise money and creates more awareness about men's mental health issues, specifically in regional Australia.

Thynne + Macartney has fostered a culture of community-mindedness in its workplace, and is a worthy recipient of this award.

QCF Photo Challenge Philanthropy in Focus

Bearing witness enables greater understanding and helps us value the experience of others.

The Philanthropy in Focus Photo Challenge highlights these experiences. The impact of the photographs and the stories they tell enhance awareness of issues affecting Queenslanders. Using the power of photography to reflect philanthropy, Queenslanders were challenged to capture a moment of kindness, generosity, compassion, thoughtfulness, benevolence or giving.

a word from Nick Pritchard

Even though the subject matter varied greatly, every one of our finalists managed to capture a moment of pure human emotion, which only made our job of judging all the more difficult.

From dramatic black and white reportage-style images to colourful contrasts showcasing moments of pure joy, each entry delivered a story of authenticity, courage and determination to do good for our communities.

Judges' Choice

Title of Work: Compassion
Submitted By: Jamie Robertson

This image speaks of hope, support, love and loss during an emotional moment shared by three indigenous women who work at Deadly Espresso Cafe, a social enterprise initiative run by SevGen.

It was captured after the woman on the right spoke passionately about her love for her Aboriginal culture and heritage. What followed was a spontaneous outpouring of emotion, captured by Jamie Robertson. The compassion, depth of feeling and shared humanity make this an outstanding photograph.

Jamie Robertson nominated SevGen as his charity of choice to receive a $2,000 donation sponsored by Northern Trust.

SevGen is short for Seven Generations and is an Indigenous ecological thinking that considers how our deliberations and actions of today will affect seven generations into the future, requiring us to be more conscious about our actions while drawing on the wisdoms of seven generations of ancestors.
